Abstract. In the factual conditions of the Covid 19 pandemic, these rules are irrelevant because making a deed directly before a notary is very risky if one of the parties facing each other is infected with the Covid 19 virus. On the other hand, the urgency of making a company establishment deed to support investment activities or Job creation cannot be postponed because it relates to the rights and obligations of the parties involved in the contract and requires the establishment of the company to be notarized. Therefore media zoom as an alternative to facing the notary directly is one of the solutions to ensure that notary services in making the deed of establishment of a limited liability company can still be carried out. The purpose of this research is to analyze and find out the authority of a notary in making limited liability company deeds through zoom media during the covid-19 pandemic and legal status of the deed of establishment of a limited liability company made via zoom during the covid-19 pandemic. The approach method in this research is sociological juridical. The data used are primary and secondary data obtained through interviews and literature study, data analysis was carried out in a qualitative descriptive manner. The research results obtained the conclusion that making a deed of establishment of a company using zoom media during the Covid-19 pandemic can in principle be carried out with a note that all processes for making deeds in general are carried out and the legal status of the deed of establishment of a limited liability company made via zoom during the Covid-19 pandemic is legally as long as all The process involved in making a notarial deed is followed by the stages.

1. Introduction

Since January 2020, Corona Virus Disease-19 (COVID-19) has infected more than 2,245,872 people worldwide. More than 152,000 people have been confirmed to have died from this virus. Therefore, it is not surprising that government leaders in many countries are struggling to get out of the COVID-19 outbreak with their own approaches.

One of the impacts that occurred in the pandemic situation was the government's restrictions on work activities in the form of work from home (WFH) and work from office (WFO).¹Where the WFO only applies to the health, food, and public service sectors, the number of which is only around 25% of capacity. Meanwhile, the notary service sector is included in the WFH category. Of course, this is very burdensome for the notary because there are norms for making notarial deeds that require physical presence to make a deed and cannot do it electronically.

2. Research Methods

The approach method in this research is sociological juridical. The data used are primary and secondary data obtained through interviews and literature study, data analysis was carried out in a qualitative descriptive manner.

The research results obtained the conclusion that making a deed of establishment of a company using zoom media during the Covid-19 pandemic can in principle be carried out with a note that all processes for making deeds in general are carried out and the legal status of the deed of establishment of a limited liability company made via zoom during the Covid-19 pandemic is legally.

3. Result and Discussion

In the factual conditions of the Covid 19 pandemic, these rules are irrelevant because making a deed directly before a notary is very risky if one of the parties facing each other is infected with the Covid 19 virus. On the other hand, the urgency of making a company establishment deed to support investment activities or Job creation cannot be postponed because it relates to the rights and obligations of the parties involved in the contract and requires the establishment of the company to be notarized.

Therefore media zoom as an alternative to facing the notary directly is one of the solutions to ensure that notary services in making the deed of establishment of a limited liability company can still be carried out. The purpose of this research is to analyze and find out the authority of a notary in making limited liability company deeds through zoom media during the covid-19 pandemic and legal status of the deed of establishment of a limited liability company made via zoom during the covid-19 pandemic.

Thus, in making a deed there must be one party who represents as a physical presence to carry out legal actions that will be written into the deed before a notary. The party who is physically present can fulfill the requirements for the authenticity of the deed. Where in the deed it can be written to be physically present and present via teleconference/video conference media. As well as including proof of the zoom or zoom video that is placed/glued in the minutes of the deed.

The research results obtained the conclusion that making a deed of establishment of a company using zoom media during the Covid-19 pandemic can in principle be carried out with a note that all processes for making deeds in general are carried out and the legal status of the deed of establishment of a limited liability company made via zoom during the Covid-19 pandemic is legally as long as all The process involved in making a notarial deed is followed by the stages.

In principle, making the company's deed of establishment using zoom media during the Covid-19 pandemic can be done with the condition that all deed-making processes are generally carried out. In addition, because the use of zoom makes the location of the parties different from other parties must be explicitly stated so as not to result in the deed becoming an underhand deed.

On the other hand, even if it turns out that the majority of legal experts still insist on the physical presence of the appearers, the only obstacle that will be limited is proving the presence of the parties.

4. Conclusion

Thus, in making a deed there must be one party who represents as a physical presence to carry out legal actions that will be written into the deed before a notary. The party who is physically present can fulfill the requirements for the authenticity of the deed. Where in the deed it can be written to be physically present and present via teleconference/video conference media. As well as including proof of the zoom or zoom video that is placed/glued in the minutes of the deed.
